

The Future of Physician Practices: Asset Protection in an Uncertain Economic Environment

September 18, 2013

Legally Speaking Executive Roundtable Series

Low interest rates and the currently strong stock market are great, but the future still seems a little hazy. Flaster Greenberg has been working with doctors for decades to analyze their needs and develop plans that protect their assets for future generations, as well as provide income for retirement. Interestingly, within our Trusts and Estates group, we take different approaches. In this executive roundtable, we will discuss and analyze some of our current ideas with a goal of educating attendees about some of the asset protection options available in today's uncertain environment.
