

Public Funding for Private Real Estate Development: Funding and Bridging the Gap

October 1, 2014

Flaster Greenberg's Philadelphia Real Estate Department invites you to our next informative breakfast discussion on Wednesday, October 1st in our Philadelphia office.

How can real estate investors, lenders, and developers access public capital sources to fund projects and bridge funding gaps? What are the opportunities? Where are the resources? How can you navigate public agencies sourcing the public funding?

Our goal is to provide an overview of the current trends, strategies, and opportunities, to fund deals as well as bridge funding gaps through public sources. We will discuss general programming as well as specifics such as: Redevelopment Assistance Capital Program (RACP), Industrial Sites Reuse (ISR), and Multimodal Transportation Fund (MTF).
