

Tax and Business Planning

The real estate industry is heavily influenced by tax considerations—federal and state income taxes as well as local real estate taxes. With its strong tax capabilities, Flaster Greenberg has attorneys who offer extra skill and advice from a practical perspective to the firm’s real estate clients. We can help to structure joint ventures to maximize tax advantages; guide buyers and sellers of real estate through the complexities of a like-kind exchange or farmland assessment rollback taxes; assist in reducing municipal assessments through timely tax appeals; devise legal strategies to minimize ordinary income and maximize capital gain; and otherwise help to ensure that tax considerations are given their due weight in the overall planning for our clients.
