

Environmental: Litigation

Litigation over environmental, safety and health issues often arises in the context of governmental cost recovery claims, agency enforcement and penalty actions, citizens' suits to enforce federal and state statutes, environmental remediation and liability disputes, insurance coverage claims and challenges to environmental permits and proposed regulations. We have significant experience representing clients in environmental lawsuits in both federal and state courts, including appellate courts, and in proceedings before administrative agency tribunals. Our experience includes Superfund (CERCLA), RCRA and New Jersey Spill Act matters, Natural Resource Damage (NRD) claims, ISRA and underground storage tank issues, as well as water, hazardous waste, solid waste and air permitting issues and alternative energy.
