

Alternative Dispute Resolution: Litigation

The judicial system is far from perfect – among other things, litigation in the courts is often more time consuming and expensive than ideal. Where practical and appropriate, our lawyers take advantage of alternative procedures for resolving disputes, including arbitration and mediation. We recognize, however, that no system works best for all situations, and reject the one-size-fits-all approach. Instead, we seek to resolve disputes in the forum best suited to achieve the goals of our clients. In addition, many of our lawyers serve as mediators or arbitrators.
