FLASTER GREENBERG
Attorneys at Law | A Professional Corporation

Business Transactions Law Resource Center

At Flaster Greenberg, we strive to provide you with valuable resources that may help you if you want to start your own business, or if you currently own a business. Below are helpful links for government websites that provide information about choosing a business name, forming a business, contract drafting and negotiation, securities, and more.

These resources are not substitutes for advice from the experienced and qualified professionals at Flaster Greenberg because hiring a business and corporate law attorney can be very valuable for your company. A business and corporate law attorney can provide you and your business with a wide range of services that will not only greatly benefit you, but protect you and your company in the long run. Federal Resources

Small and large businesses, corporations, and partnerships can visit the IRSs website for forms and information related to federal tax issues including business tax credits, deducting expenses, employment taxes, excise taxes, and gift taxes. You can also find information about how to file your taxes and details about various business types, forming a business, operating a business, and separating a business.

- Internal Revenue Service

New Jersey

New Jersey business owners can explore the following websites to learn more about starting, changing, selling, or closing a business in the state. You will find resources about employer payroll tax, partnerships, sales and use tax, urban enterprise zone, and pass-through business alternative income tax (PTE/BAIT). In addition, you will find business support through NJs Office of Small Business Advocacy which supports businesses with mentoring, financial resources, and licensing and professional certifications.

- New Jersey Division of Taxation
- Department of State
- Business name lookup
