Stephanie Lim is a member of Flaster Greenberg's Intellectual Property Department and Patent Practice Group. She is a trial attorney who focuses her practice on intellectual property litigation, with a concentration on patent litigation.

Stephanie has represented leading consumer electronics, pharmaceutical, medical device, and automotive companies in both asserting and defending intellectual property before U.S. District Courts, the International Trade Commission, and the Patent Trial and Appeal Board. Her practice covers a wide range of technologies, including wireless communications, such as cellular communications (e.g., 3G, 4G, Bluetooth), mobile wallets, digital assistants in mobile devices, complex medical devices, infotainment systems, and more.

Stephanie received her B.A. in Neuroscience at the University of Pennsylvania and her J.D. from Northwestern Pritzker School of Law, where she served as an executive articles editor of the Journal of Technology & Intellectual Property.

Stephanie has also been recognized for her extensive pro bono practice and has received the Award for Excellence in Pro Bono Service by the United States District Court and Chicago Chapter of Federal Bar Association.

In addition to her education and legal experience, Stephanie spent one year as a teaching fellow at Mongolia International University in Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia, where she taught "Experiments in Biotechnology."
