What Employers Should Know about Marijuana, COVID and More...

June 21, 2022

This event has ended.

The past few years have brought many changes related to the COVID-19 pandemic including new health and safety guidelines, testing, leave, remote work and much more. Additionally, NJ has revamped its medical marijuana program and stood up a recreational cannabis industry. As this new industry unfolds and as the state simultaneously emerges from the health crisis, employers need to be aware of their responsibilities in the workplace. Come join a panel of attorneys to discuss how employers can keep up with the latest employment practices.
