COURSE TITLE & DESCRIPTION

Maximizing Insurance Recovery Under Your Directors & Officers Insurance Policy for Costs Incurred Responding to Government Subpoenas

Will your D&O insurer step up to defend your company if it receives a Department of Justice subpoena? Government subpoenas are often unexpected and require a swift and sometimes costly response. To add insult to injury, insurance companies can be quick to deny claims made under D&O policies. The language of the subpoena, the terms of the policy and the governing law all affect whether a claim should be paid. Our panel will examine the contractual language most likely to give rise to a coverage dispute and how your company can best position itself to prevail. From a coverage perspective, we will also provide an overview of what to expect when you receive a government subpoena or similar investigative inquiry, how D&O policies are triggered in this context, what to do when a claim is denied, and how to maximize coverage for the costs ultimately incurred.
