

Estate Planning for the Young Professional

October 20, 2011
Flaster Greenberg

Studies show that, of people in all age groups, young couples with families are most at-risk for catastrophic accidents and life-altering events. Yet, this segment of the population is among the most poorly prepared for medical and financial crises. Unfortunately, uninformed or deferred decisions, or choices made in a stressful or time-sensitive context, may have disastrous repercussions that will affect the tax treatment of your assets, the selection of your beneficiaries and even the guardianship of your children.

This seminar will provide young professionals with the tools needed to establish a strategic estate plan to protect themselves and their families. We will address wills, living wills, and general and medical powers of attorney, as well as methods to create, preserve and transfer wealth, in the most tax-efficient manner possible, for the benefit of future generations.
