

Some South Jersey Businesses Survive, Even Thrive During Bad Economic Times

Press of Atlantic City

December 5, 2011

Cherry Hill, NJ

The Press of Atlantic City interviewed Doug Stanger extensively on November 28, 2011 for an article about southern New Jersey businesses thriving during bad economic times. Stanger reported that although many businesses are suffering due to the economy, his bankruptcy practice is booming. Stanger said,

“It isn’t all capitalizing on other people’s hard times. There is that element that it’s rewarding that you see people in trouble and help them through it,” said Stanger. “It’s not only the people who are filing bankruptcy, but the people they owe money to, who get hurt.”

ATTORNEYS MENTIONED

Douglas Stanger