

Steve Sacharow to Speak on Child Custody in the 21st Century at NJICLE South CLEfest

Press Release

July 26, 2013
Cherry Hill, NJ

Flaster Greenberg shareholder and nationally recognized family law attorney Steven B. Sacharow has been tapped by the New Jersey Institute of Continuing Legal Education (NJICLE) to participate as a panelist at the upcoming South CLEfest. He will join a panel of experts in child custody, which include: Amanda Trigg; Eileen Kohutis; Kathryn Laughlin; and Beth Manes.

The panel discussion, entitled "Child Custody in the 21st Century," will navigate through today's top child custody issues, including: The Impact of technology on raising children and communicating as co-parents; The role of blended families in negotiating and executing parenting plans; Intrastate, interstate and international relocation issues; Religion and custody; and third party custody issues.

Sacharow's representation of clients includes matters involving child custody, parenting time, child support, alimony and equitable distribution of assets. It also consists of legal aspects of relationship formation including cohabitation and prenuptial agreements. His family law practice further includes representation of individuals involved in same sex relationships, including cohabitation agreements and dissolution of relationships, involving both civil unions and non-formalized relationships, as well as mediation (as a mediator and representing clients in mediation) and collaborative divorce. Additionally, his adoption practice is comprised of domestic and interstate adoptions, agency or private, and he has extensive experience in the litigation of contested adoption matters.

The NJICLE South CLEfest will take place on Friday, August 16, 2013 at the Borgata Hotel and Casino in Atlantic City, NJ and has been approved for 3.3 NJ, NY, PA and matrimonial attorney certificate CLE credits. For more information, or to register, click here.
