
Marty Judge Joins Panel at the NJSBA's 2018 Environmental Law Forum

Press Release

July 17, 2018
Cherry Hill, NJ

Marty M. Judge, shareholder and chair of Flaster Greenberg PC's Environmental Law and Real Estate and Land Use Departments, recently joined a panel of environmental experts to discuss popular topics at the New Jersey State Bar Association's Environmental Law Section's annual Environmental Law Forum. The forum was a three-day event held on June 22-24th in Cape May, New Jersey and was sponsored by the NJSBA Environmental Law Section and NJICLE.

The event examined topics such as environmental insurance updates, New Jersey's energy future, emerging contaminants and much more. Judge spoke on the "Equitable Allocations and Cleanup of Complex Sediment Sites- Legal and Technical Perspectives" panel, and his particular topic discussed natural resource damages at complex sediment sites, including:

- What is an NRD Claim?
- What injuries are covered?
- What is the baseline?
- What are the damages?
- NRD Assessments
- NRDs-Sensitive Receptors
- Role and Perspectives of Trustees
- Exxon Settlement Example

Judge currently serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the NJSBA Environmental Law Section. He focuses his practice on all facets of environmental litigation, and environmental regulatory compliance and counseling. He is also a former Deputy Attorney General for the State of New Jersey where

ATTORNEYS MENTIONED

Marty Judge